From the Rabbi's Study

The Joy and Immortality of Bar and Bat Mitzvah

Annie and I wish to thank the community for helping us celebrate our son Gavi's Bar Mitzvah the weekend of July Fourth. It was truly a peak experience for our family. Additionally, we had family and friends from out of town, and they were all so impressed with the beauty and warmth of the CBS community. Thank you.

Gavi was born in between the day of my ordination and the day I began working as a rabbi in Dallas, Texas. So, just as it is his Bar Mitzvah, it is my Bar Mitzvah year in the rabbinate. In these thirteen years I have been privileged to officiate at dozens if not hundreds of Bar and Bat Mitzvah ceremonies. It is so different being on the other side. The pride, the joy, and the emotion all took me by surprise.

What surprised me the most was how the Bar Mitzvah made me reflect on my own mortality. Gavi and I went to the weekday minyan during the week before we celebrated on Shabbat. As he was leading the service in the chapel at Village Shalom, I reflected on religious change that had taken place. By his becoming a full and equal part of the community, not only did Gavi count in the minyan, but he could lead the community in prayer. In other words, by his saying a blessing, and by me saying "amen," he had discharged my religious responsibility. It was the first time that my son religiously did something for me.

This subtle change in Jewish legal status made me fast forward in my mind and thinking of how slowly, imperceptibly the roles will reverse.

Before I know it, my children will be giving me the help that I need, they will be caring for me, and one day, it will be they who say Kaddish for my soul.

Though I wasn't conscious of it before, perhaps therein lies the joy of the Bar or Bat Mitzvah ceremony. When we see a child at the bimah, who is on the cusp of adulthood, we are able to imagine our own immortality. That might be the source of the joy. We can say to ourselves, "Perhaps. Perhaps, it won't all end with us, and the story will last another generation."

Executively Speaking

Preserving & Building Beth Shalom's Legacy

It is my pleasure to welcome you back for the 2014-15 synagogue year which began on July 1. By now you have received your membership invoices. I ask you to consider using a payment plan with a credit card on file, which, when in effect, breaks down the cost into small increments. You can take up to 10 months to pay providing you sign up before the end of August.

Since our past bridges us to the future, it is important to reflect back on the time you chose to be a member of CBS. You ultimately made the decision to join this synagogue for a number of reasons. Usually religion and family tradition played the deciding role in a synagogue search; you looked for a warm and welcoming congregation, one where you could find spiritual solace and nourishment for your soul. At CBS we offer much, from Adult Education to Sisterhood and Men's Club, from Steppin' Out, to our youth programs, our Rose Family Early Childhood Education Center welcomes your preschoolers with open arms, while our Polsky Religious School gives your child the framework for a strong Jewish education.

The staff of Beth Shalom has watched you shed tears of joy on the first day of preschool, on the bimah at your child's Bar/Bat Mitzvah day or the time you were touched by one of Rabbi's enlightening sermons. Tears of joy in synagogue life are often replaced with tears of sadness; at those times and in all life's challenges, we are here for you.

You are the preservers of the past and the guardians of the future. The decision is in your hands; your membership is the lifeblood of this synagogue, and we hope you will consider moving up a membership category to help us to meet our goals of a lasting legacy for your children and beyond.

Elaine Levine

Polsky Religious School Review

Shalom! I know you think it's still summer, but now that it's August, my sense of calendar is ticking rapidly into fall.

Fall means the start of school. Fall means the High Holy Days. And, fall means gearing up, up, up! This month we return to Hebrew School and do, indeed, look headlong into the High Holy Day season.

This year marks the beginning of a new chapter in my life, personally – I'm no longer a rookie at CBS! Last year I made very few changes to the curriculum, to the way our school works. This summer I did an intensive study of our curriculum, met with our teachers, and have made several changes in the khomer, the material that our children are learning, as well as changes in the ways that our teachers and children approach the learning.

Our curriculum has been project-driven in a few grades, and this year it will be even more so. There have also been changes in the timing of our school – Sundays will begin at 9 am with a community-wide tefillah, service, for which parents are encouraged to stay.

I hope you will join us on August 17 at 11 am in Goldsmith Hall to meet your children's teachers, see the textbooks we will be using and get an overview of the curriculum. I'll be reviewing highlights of the Parent Handbook, going over the updated security details and more. I can't wait to see you on August 17!

B'nei Mitzvah Parents' Meeting

Miss Judy's Guide to Reading

It is hard to believe summer is almost over! Getting ready to start a new school year takes planning. Miss Judy recommends that you read, read, read with your child! Being a good reader guarantees success in school!

For little ones who don't read yet, being read to regularly helps children develop a love for books and a wonderful feeling about reading. What is better than snuggling with a book and discussing it with total attention from your mommy or daddy? Read all kinds of books, rhymes, poetry, silly jokes, autobiographies and stories where your kids can guess the ending before you read what will happen.

Miss Judy also suggests that you play rhyming, opposites, number and category games in the car instead of listening to music or watching a video. Other suggestions for getting a child ready to read are finding words that start with a letter or sound or words that are synonyms and finding things that look like shapes.

Encouraging your children to help clean up and emphasizing good manners helps get them ready for school. Have play dates with kids who will be going to your child's school. Start putting your children to bed a little earlier so they can get up early in the morning and be well rested.

Enjoy the last few weeks of summer. Unfortunately another summer has flown by!

Special Birthday Celebration

Sheldon Wishna will be called up to the Torah on Shabbat morning, September 6, in honor of his 80th birthday. Sharing this simchah will be his son, Victor Wishna, who will be reading Torah in honor of his 40th birthday. Sheldon is sponsoring the Kiddush Luncheon, while Victor and his wife Annie are co-sponsoring that morning's Tot Shabbat and Kid's Club Kiddush. The Wishnas invite their family, friends, and fellow congregants to join them at Shabbat services and the luncheon to follow.

Sheldon and his wife, Jeanette (a congregational past president of blessed memory), have been long-time, active members of CBS. Victor has been associated with CBS since birth, attending services and religious school and actively participating in Kadima and USY. Since moving back to Kansas City, Victor and Annie, who also grew up at our synagogue, have become very involved in synagogue life, the preschool, and family events, with their children, Vivien (3) and Abraham (6 months).
